Here's How You Can Be Safe With Your Training

*Please train smart and listen to your body. Avoid pushing too hard

*Avoid performing any exercises that you aren't clear on how to perform. Always seek expert advice from an experienced trainer if you are unsure.

*If it hurts, stop immediately. You don't win any awards for pushing through the pain. In most cases you can modify exercises to eliminate any pain. Look for modified solutions in the program

*You can even start with 1 set of a given exercise. There's a chance you'll experience soreness when you first start the program so avoid doing too many sets in the beginning.

*Feel free to take extra rest between sets in a workout or take extra time between workouts until you feel ready to go again

*Having a training partner can help motivated you as well as help you train safer. If you're alone, make sure your form is very good and you don't continue doing exercises if your form breaks down.

*Always start with easier modified exercises first. Don't try to show off or be a hero. It's actually better for you and your tennis if you perform the "easier" exercises with amazing form. You'll be challenged even with the easy exercises.

*You should take at least one day off per week.

*Always perform the activation and warm up drills to get your body and mind prepared for the main workout of the day.

*Avoid starting this program if you have a preexisting injury. You can work around it with some exercises in the program but it's not advised. Seek out a doctor and/or physical therapist to help you heal your injury before you begin this program.

*Check with your doctor before starting any new exercise program. It's vital to focus on training smart and safely.
